11,222 Voters Okay Funds

$10 Million To Be Used For New Classrooms To Meet Enrollment

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

A total of 16,143 voters went to the polls in Tuesday's special election to back up the Lincoln school system with a 11,222 to 4,921 vote of approval of a $10 million bond issue.

The better than two to one majority in favor of the bond issue was more favorable than had been expected in most quarters. Requiring for approval at least 55 per cent of the vote cast to be in its favor, nearly 70 per cent of the total vote cast was for the issue.

The margin of victory for the $10 million was even greater than that registered by the school district's $6 million issue of 1951. The $6 million issue was approved in May of 1951 by a vote of 12,935 for and 6,168 against — about 67 per cent of the total vote cast in favor of the issue.

Six Precincts Opposed

The areas where school improvements are scheduled under the $10 million program seemed to make little difference as the two to one majority in favor of the proposal was a general trend across the city. Only a scattering of six precincts out of 95 were recorded in opposition to the issue.

Those six precincts were 2B, Park School area; 4B, Elliott and Capitol School area; 5E-1

SCHOOL NEEDS LISTED

The following is a list of the estimated school building needs, as submitted by the board of education before Tuesday's election. The list gives an approximate idea of what the $10,000,000 approved by the voters will be used for.

- Belmont, 14th and Judson, add 12 to 18 classrooms and a multipurpose room.

- Benton, 50th and Benton, new primary school for northeast development.

- Bethany, 1526 North Cotner, regrade fill, and gravel area between Sixty-sixth and Sixty-eighth Streets, south of school. Provide six or seven classrooms and alter boiler room.

- College View Elementary, 46th and Bancroft, remodel College View High School and connect buildings.

- Eastborough, 70th and Vine, new school—from 13 to 26 classrooms.

- Eastridge, 62nd and L, seven to 20 classrooms, as needed.

- Hawthorne, 48th and L, add eight classrooms, kindergarten, and library.

- Hayward, 9th and Charleston, remodel six classrooms, as needed. Provide hot lunch kitchen and dining area.

- Holmes, 52nd and Summer, add 12 rooms and kindergarten.

- Huntington, 2926 North 47th, add nine classrooms after lunchroom facilities.

- Lincoln High School, 22nd and J, remodel science and home-making departments.

- Merle Beattie, 19th and Calvert, add seven to 19 rooms, as needed.

- Norwood Park, 72nd and Douglas, remodel or replace with seven to 13 classrooms and facilities, as needed.

- Pershing, 64th and Judson, seven to 26 classrooms, as needed.

- Randolph, 37th and D, add four rooms and develop a primary school district to relieve load.

- Riley, 5051 Dudley, add seven to fourteen rooms, as needed.

- Operation and maintenance building, building to provide garage, storage, and shops.

- Heating plant, 22nd and J, new boilers and heating tunnels.

The above facilities are estimated to cost $6,903,650.

- Some 46 elementary classrooms will be needed, in addition to the above estimated facilities, at an approximate cost of $1,370,885.

- Sixty-two additional secondary classrooms, other facilities, and building sites will be needed by 1960, and are estimated to cost $2,140,000.

- Miscellaneous equipment needs for buildings under construction, $102,500.

Grand Total, $10,517,035.

School Project To Start After Bonds Passage

One of Lincoln's school projects, which had been contingent on approval of the bond issue, can be started immediately.

The school board Tuesday, while voters were at the polls deciding the fate of the bond issue, tentatively approved a low bid of $143,700 for the second addition to Merle Beattie School. The bid was accepted provided the bond issue passed. Wilson Construction Co. submitted the bid.

Bids will be received by the Board at 2 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 10, for construction of the public schools activity building to be erected adjoining Lincoln High School.

—Voted First For Harrison— Lucien McCandless Dies At 100 After Broken Hip Injury

Lucien McCandless, who lived to be 100 and said it was because he "never drank or chewed," died Tuesday.

Death came at a local hospital, where the centenarian had been taken after breaking his hip early in January. His home was at 4943 Cleveland.

Ironically, Mr. McCandless died on election day; ironically because one of the polling place clerks had said at the time of the 1952 presidential election, "it wouldn't seem like an election if Mr. McCandless didn't come in."

The Illinois native — he was born in McDonough county on June 25, 1854 — whose father ran for the Illinois State Legislature on the same ballot that Abraham Lincoln ran for President, estimated he voted for "17 or 18" presidents.

His first vote was cast for Benjamin Harrison in 1888. "Once," he said, "I voted for a Democrat." Otherwise his ballot was always Republican.

May Be Last
His death fulfilled a prophecy he made at the last election when he said "this may be my last time."

In spite of considering such a possibility, he remained spry until his injury and viewed the day's activities with enthusiasm.

Six years ago he took his first plane ride to visit a daughter in Portland, Ore.

During the summer months he worked in the yard and raised a garden. He also liked to spend much of his time reading and playing checkers.

On his 100th birthday last June, he received a special present. His entire family was with him for the first time in 27 years, and he received congratulations from President Eisenhower.

At the time of his birthday he attributed his longevity to the fact that he never "drank or chewed," that he kept regular hours and worked hard, and to the grace of God.

He said it also was true that "I like to laugh — perhaps this has helped, too."

Mr. McCandless came to Nebraska in 1872, where he farmed near York. In 1878, he married Amanda Gandy and they moved to Custer County, where they homesteaded.

Moving to University Place in 1918 in order to provide his children with educations, he remained in Lincoln area the rest of his life. His wife died six years ago at the age of 87.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church.

Survivors include his four children: W. L. McCandless of Kansas City, Mo.; Harry McCandless of Redondo Beach, Calif.; Charles McCandless of Long Beach, Calif.; and Mrs. Paul Baker of Salem, Ore.; and nine grandchildren.

Harder Policy Expected From Premier Bulganin

Malenkov Out; Khrushchev Pulls Strings

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Georgi Malenkov's resignation from the Soviet premiership likely will mean a substantial reshuffle of the whole Soviet government under the eye of Nikita S. Krushchev, Westerners in Moscow believed Tuesday night.

Malenkov stepped down Tuesday with a confession of failure to do his job. To succeed him Khrushchev nominated Nikolai Bulganin, defense minister and an Army marshal, as the choice of the Communist Party's Central Committee which Khrushchev heads. The Supreme Soviet Parliament voted in Bulganin by acclamation.

The day's developments underlined the Soviet Union's renewed emphasis on production of heavy goods, including armament — a policy exemplified by Khrushchev. The tough policy was further supported in a long speech by V. M. Molotov, the foreign minister. He criticized the United States as an aggressor, upheld Communist China's claim to Formosa and presented a picture of possible atom warfare which Communism alone would survive.

Articles Recalled

All this made the people of Moscow remember the articles they have been reading in Pravda lately, and in other papers too, concerning the priority of expanding the Soviet Union's heavy industry as a necessity for furthering the nation's military might and producing prosperity.

Pravda last month said people who disagreed with priority for heavy industry are Rightists, deviationists and spoilers of Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist theory.

That would seem to put a quietus on the campaign for more consumer goods through which the Malenkov government, the first post-Stalin government, sought to popularize itself with the people.

To Big An Order

It also seemed to many Western observers an admission that the Soviet Union cannot do all things at once. They cannot push a massive farm expansion program taking hundreds of thousands of people out of city factories and placing them on the virgin land of Siberia and Central Asia, at the same time pushing a big livestock program, a big consumer goods program, and yet have expansion of heavy industry too.

Something had to give.

The resignation of Anastas Mikoyan as trade minister was a recent tipoff to differences in the Malenkov Cabinet. Khrushchev apparently swung his support to those persons demanding more heavy industry and defense production, and that decided the issue.

What Next?

Now what's going to happen. Wednesday's meeting of the Supreme Soviet may get an announcement of a reshuffle in the government. It is expected that Premier Bulganin will relinquish the defense ministry. Will it go to Marshal Zhukov, the Soviet Union's No. 1 soldier, who has come strongly to the fore again since Stalin's death?

Will Khrushchev enter the government as a deputy premier or continue as chief of the Communist party and general expediter of everything from livestock and grain through expanding the populations to huge building programs?

And what new duties will be assigned to Malenkov?

There are riddles still to be solved here and most observers should be two to support him.

believe the full story is far from told.

Does Bulganin's appointment as premier mean that the Army is moving further to the fore and taking over in the Soviet Union?

One of the West's leading ambassadors cautioned Tuesday night against accepting such a conclusion. He pointed out that Bulganin is an experienced and able administrator. The expansion of heavy industry of course favors Army needs and the Soviet Union is committed to give aid to its seven Communist East European allies under a joint command which probably will be headed by a Soviet marshal.

Wait-And-See Advised

Most people here, however, still advise a wait-and-see attitude on the prospective reconstruction of the government.

Malenkov resigned at a morning session of the Parliament, confessing himself a failure in the field of agriculture and an inexperienced hand in the affairs of would take on other duties — unspecified — and had promised to "carry them out faithfully."

Khrushchev, for the first time, led the formal entry of the Soviet leadership onto the stage for this session. On the platform in the huge gold and white meeting chamber, he sat with President Klementy Voroshilov on his left and Bulganin — in a marshal's uniform — on the right. Malenkov and Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich were also in the front row. Molotov was in the back row.

Man of Experience

The white-bearded, handsome Bulganin at 59 is six years older than Malenkov. During World War II he was the Communist official directly in charge of the armed services, immediately beneath Stalin.

Khrushchev said Bulganin was the unanimous choice of the Communist party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers for the premiership. The Central Committee met Jan. 25.

Molotov Accuses Ike And Congress Of Threatening War On Red China

...He Hints U.S. Behind in A-Weapon Development

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Tuesday accused President Eisenhower and the U.S. Congress of openly threatening Communist China with war over Formosa and the Pescadores.

He hinted also that the United States may be behind the Soviet Union in atomic weapons development.

Molotov made a wide-ranging 2½-hour foreign affairs speech to Russia's Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in the great Kremlin Palace, capping an eventful day that saw Georgi M. Malenkov resign as premier and Marshal Nikolai Bulganin elevated to succeed him.

The veteran foreign minister declared that Formosa and the Pescadores, "without mentioning other islands adjacent to China, are undoubtedly Chinese territory."

Hired Forces

"In spite of all this," he said, "these islands have now been seized by the U.S.A. who maintain there, at their expense, the criminal gang of Chiang Kai-shek that was expelled from China, preparing with the aid of his hired forces an attack against China."

"Lately things went so far that the President and Congress of the U.S.A. got carried away to such an extent with their policy of strength that they began openly to threaten war with the Chinese people who are protecting their rights to these islands and defending their national honor and sovereignty against the aggressor."

As the two branches of Parliament — the Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities — listened quietly, Molotov developed his charge of aggression by the United States against China over Formosa. This is in line with charges of aggression already leveled by Moscow in the United Nations Security Council.

Molotov declared the Russians consider "the aggressive actions of the U.S.A. and its threats of war" as "an aggression which from the Tachens and stands between Formosa and Pescadores and any attack from the mainland."

"The U.S.A. must withdraw from Taiwan (Formosa) and the straits of Formosa all its armed forces, including its forces in the air and at sea," he declared. "Then military actions will cease in the Far East and peace will prevail."

Molotov told the Supreme Soviet that Russia has developed "the hydrogen weapon" with "such success that the United States could appear backward," adding:

"The Soviet Union wants a competition with the United States not in the production of atomic weapons but in using atomic energy for peaceful aims."

Strange Upheaval Studied

Malenkov Resignation Appears Phony To U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (P)—The strange upheaval in Moscow Tuesday set the Eisenhower administration to reassessing its conclusions about the aims of Soviet foreign policy.

Tentatively, officials said the passing of Georgi Malenkov from the premiership is expected to produce much tougher Soviet behavior toward the rest of the world.

That would mean stronger support for Red China's political and military pressures to take over the Chinese Nationalist coastal islands and eventually Formosa.

It would also mean greater use of threats and perhaps demonstrations of force in the European area to intimidate France and prevent ratification of agreements for rearming West Germany.

Termed Nonsense

State Department experts, studying official reports from Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, concluded that Malenkov's resignation statement was in part if not altogether a phony. These experts dismissed as nonsense the "confession" by Malenkov that he lacked experience in important aspects of economic work. He was in fact a member of the Supreme War Committee throughout World War II and had enormous responsibility.

The statement did highlight two great issues inside the Soviet Union—the failure of farm production to increase as the government demands, and a controversial choice between heavy and light industry. Those issues indicate some political instability in the government. In that sense such issues may have contributed to Malenkov's downfall, the choice of Nikolai Bulganin as premier and the emergence of Nikita S. Khrushchev as the new Russian strongman.

Great Clash Sensed

But the phony elements of this statement indicated to Washington authorities that something more than an argument over issues was involved. They believed a gigantic clash of personalities has been under way and may still be continuing. There is speculation that purges on a large scale may follow such a top-level turnover. Some experts wonder whether Malenkov, despite the position of prominence he still holds among the rulers of Russia, will survive more than a few months.

Malenkov has for the past two years been identified with softer lines of policy in and out of Russia. His aims of spreading Communism were the same as those of Stalin or Bulganin and Khrushchev. But his methods were different.

One of his announced policies was to build up light industries for more consumer goods. This he failed to do.

Coffee Prices Cut By Chains; Independent Change Uncertain

Four of the nation's largest grocery chains dropped retail coffee prices as much as 12 cents a pound Tuesday, but Lincoln independent retailers indicated no cut would be made here until wholesalers announced a change.

In turn, local wholesale houses said coffee manufacturers would have to set the pace.

R. H. Lau, president of the H. P. Lau Co., wholesale grocers, said his firm would have to receive a cut from the manufacturer before Lau could pass on a price drop to retailers. And Sam Poska, secretary of the Lincoln Food Retailers Association, said retailers would probably wait for a notice from the wholesalers.

On the national level, International News Service reported the reduction, the second since the first of the year, brought coffee prices down to the lowest level in two years, and followed a sharp fall in green coffee quotations. The cuts were announced on nationwide basis is effective immediately.

The A&P Food Stores reduced coffee prices by 10 to 12 cents a pound, depending on the brand.

The National Tea Co. cut its brands 10 cents a pound.

The Jewel Food Stores reduced its coffee 10 to 12 cents a pound.

The Del Farm Stores reduced prices by 10 cents a pound.

School, City Officials Pleased By Bonds Vote

Lincoln school and city officials were pleased Tuesday night by the two-to-one majority vote in favor of the $10 million bond issue for construction of added school facilities.

The vote brought from Mrs. Rosco Hill, president of the school board, an expression of appreciation "on behalf of the children of our city," and a pledge that the money would be spent "wisely and efficiently."

Mrs. Hill told The Star:

"Of course I am pleased with the favorable vote on the school bond issue. However, I have always had full confidence that the people of Lincoln would continue their long tradition of adequate support for education.

It is on behalf of the children of our city that I express appreciation to the voters for their decision to provide for the immediate public school building needs.

"The Board of Education will continue to make every effort to spend this money wisely and efficiently. As we make our plans

bondsman fined $10
On Speeding Charge

Bondsman Ben H. Dolan of 1709 No. 29th was found guilty by a Lancaster District Court jury on a speeding at night charge.

Dolan was charged with exceeding the state's nighttime 50-mile-an-hour limit last Nov. 11. In his appeal from conviction in Municipal Court, Dolan had contended he "lawfully" exceeded the speed limit to pursue a court defendant on whom he had given bond.

Following the jury's verdict, Judge White fined Dolan $10 and costs.

"In accepting such a financial obligation, the people clearly indicate a belief in our public schools, and it should make us all aware of our great responsibility in attempting to provide the best possible educational program for the children of Lincoln."

Watkins Gratified

Superintendent of Schools Steven Watkins said: "The results have been most gratifying. I believe the Board and the community owes a great debt to Dr. Steven Watkins for his forthright presentations of our educational problems. It is apparent that the citizens of Lincoln were made aware of the educational needs and have accepted their responsibility."

And Mayor Clark Jeary made the following statement:

"Naturally, we have our own city problems but we have watched with a good deal of interest the election on the school bonds. The expansion of the city must be coordinated along all lines, including schools. We are pleased the voters approved the proposition which will permit all segments of our municipal life to be kept in balance."

Ice Fall Brings $25,000 Injury Suit

Mrs. Ethel Carroll of 138 No. 16th has filed a $25,000 personal injury suit in Lancaster District Court against the Robinson Outdoor Advertising Co.

Plaintiff asks $20,000 for alleged injuries received Jan. 11, 1955, when she allegedly slipped on an accumulation of ice near the northeast corner of the defendant's building at 17th and P.

The suit also asks $5,000 for medical expenses and loss of services to her husband, Laurence Carroll, because of her injuries.

Plaintiff alleges negligence of the defendant company in failure to remove the ice from the sidewalk.

72nd And Vine Tract Studied For A School

The Board of Education has considered the acquisition of a 13-acre tract of land on the north side of Vine at 72nd as a future school site in that rapidly developing residential area.

The land is located in the center of a large tract between 70th and 76th from Vine to Holdrege that is in the process of being platted for home construction by the Meadow Lane Development Co.

Charles Sayre, president.

Sayre and Carl Olson presented the question of the schoolsite to the Board. Olson stated that his firm, Olson Construction Co., is interested in the project as an investor.

Meadow Lane also has another 80-acre tract on the south side of Vine which it plans to develop later. Plans are to construct some 500 to 600 homes in the entire Meadow Lane area.</

Executive Mansion

Where to get the money for the construction of a new Nebraska executive mansion at an estimated cost of $200,000 seems to be the most difficult problem confronting the Legislature in connection with this undertaking.

There was one suggestion that it be withdrawn from the Board of Control's share of the 1.1 mill institutional building levy. That, of course, could gum up temporarily the long-range building program of the board in the development of institutions under its jurisdiction. There was another suggestion that it be taken from the 1.1 mill building levy before the revenue so collected is redistributed among the University of Nebraska, the normal schools, and the Board of Control.

Pass The Pills, Pappy

There was one voice, at least, crying in the wilderness of what science is pleased to call progress, but that solo of protest will most surely be joined until the chorus swells to resounding volume that echoes and re-echoes throughout the land wherever gourmets—or Mr. Average Eating Citizen—gather . . .

Editor J. H. Rhoades of Blair is having none of his protein in pills, thank you, and please pass the sirloin. He began toying editorially with what might happen if efforts now under way within the laboratories develop to the extent that all our food could be concentrated and tucked into tablets, and a meal could be had just for the gulping. And he scared himself and his readers right out of their hearty Washington County appetites . . .

It isn't exactly a pleasant contemplation to brood over from one meal to the next. True, the housewives' labors might be reduced in the same proportion as pot-roast to pill, and man could perhaps exist. But it would be just that—mere existence—with nothing of living in it. That smell of coffee in the early morning, with pancakes or waffles and sausage or crisp strips

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Biggest news since the death of Premier Josef Stalin of Soviet Russia could be the resignation of his successor, Georgi Malenkov, and the selection of Nikolai Bulganin as a replacement. The circumstances of Malenkov's resignation are unprecedented. He is the first of the line in Russia's dictatorship to step aside voluntarily. He retired because of "lack of experience."

Beyond Russia's borders there will be a cynical lifting of eyebrows as a result of the announcement. It simply does not square with the character of the Russian dictatorship. Beyond Russia's borders peoples have been aware of the struggle for power constantly in progress within the ranks of the Communist regime. That struggle at all times has been infused by intrigue, by plotting, by conspiracy within rival groups, but always Russia's head man has been able to maintain the upper hand—by purges when necessary, and less drastic methods on other occasions. Here in the United States, in our great, understandable distrust of the Soviet regime we may never have known the real Malenkov. He may have been seeking to lead Russia toward a program of peaceful co-existence more than we suspect, only to run headlong into the opposition of the hard core of the old Bolsheviks who have not surrendered one tiny vestige of their old long-held dream of world conquest, the world's masses subjected to Soviet rule. And there is the possibility that Malenkov was telling the truth and only the truth when he said that he was lacking in the experience to handle the affairs of powerful Russia. What now necessarily takes the free world by surprise and hits the diplomats and the press representatives of the countries gasping will in time reveal itself.

All that there is to be said at this time about the change in Russian leadership is that something is cooking. What that something actually is can only be speculation. Bulganin, the new premier, held in high trust by Stalin and by Stalin's closest associates, for years has been delegated to administer the gigantic Soviet war machine. So it can be said that if any conclusion is to be drawn, it must be recognized by the free world that there is evidence of the growing strength of the army in the shaping of Russian government.

The squat, pudgy 53-year-old Malenkov, in office less than two years, obviously has lacked the decisiveness of his predecessor. There is the possibility that when Stalin breathed his last, the mold of leadership which projected Russia as one of the two great powers in the world was destined to crumble. That has been the story of dictatorship. It can continue to flourish only so long as those who breathe the breath of life into it continue to exercise the power. The real test comes when it becomes necessary to select a successor. Stalin filled the gap created by Lenin's death and if anything, strengthened the Communist regime in Russia. But when Stalin died, no one in Russia had been permitted to attain the stature necessary to carry on. If that is the meaning of Malenkov's amazing confession of lack of experience, then it fits snugly into the pattern. But if these recent months of alternating firmness and conciliation represent nothing more than the conflict between rivals within the Soviet regime, then the news of the change in Russia is not good. It suggests a stiffening of Russian opposition, a decision within the Kremlin to meet the mounting challenge of the western nations with a show of defiance, possibly with steel. Back of Bulganin was Nikita Khrushchev, whose appearance at the historic Kremlin gathering was the signal for the most enthusiastic ovation of the day. As an old party boss, he has been too far in the background to furnish any guide to what may be expected as a result of Malenkov's resignation and Bulganin's promotion.

This is a surprise move. It has taken the free world by surprise. Undoubtedly that is the way it was planned. At a time when tension is greatest over developments in eastern waters, the cryptic Slav chooses to contribute further to confusion by changing horses in midstream.

China Recognition Seen In Background

WASHINGTON — It won't be announced for some time and it may even be denied, but the President has just about made up his mind that when the time is ripe he will recognize Red China.

The fact that the Red Chinese have overwhelming control of the mainland, plus the shaky Nationalist leadership of Chiang Kai-Shek, plus the dubious policy of risking a major war for the sake of Formosa all contributed to the President's thinking.

Secretary of State Dulles has leaned toward this view for some time. Eisenhower himself has come round to it more recently. But he has long been convinced—even before he became President of the United States—that this country could not afford to get bogged down in war with China.

The Eisenhower strategy will be to grant recognition if the Reds cut out their propaganda attacks against the U.S.A., agree to a cease-fire and agree to respect the right of the Nationalists to maintain a separate China on Formosa.

All the above is one reason why Sen. William Knowland of California has been running down to the White House two or three times a week lately. He suspects that this shift is in the wind and has been doing his best to stop it.

In doing so, he has one potent, important ally—Red China itself. Communist Chinese leaders have become so cocky, so overconfident, so brazen about having the West on the run, that they may thumb their noses at any sort of agreement even if they get recognition in return.

O, Even Waitresses Carrot A Man Eats

The way of a waitress with a vegetable is something I shall never understand.

Probably waitresses are like they are about vegetables because they are women. Women have spent so many thousands of years cramming vegetables down the unwilling throats of undersized males that the chore has become a regular part of their nature, like runs in their stockings. They see a man, and their first thought it, "Somebody ought to make that big lug eat his vegetables!"

I like waitresses, and admire them. They work twice as hard as most people; they walk a million miles a day; they put up with everything from insult to pigish rudeness, and they're usually cheerful in spite of it. They're nice people. Except when it comes to vegetables.

I do not like vegetables. I have never liked vegetables. Like most men, I am the victim of vegetable tyranny at home. At least twice a day I must put on a gay smile and dribble every last little pea down my gullet, until my plate is as clean and shining as a bald head in the sun, and all as an example to the children.

"How does this look?" she wanted to know, waving a side dish of succotash under my nose.

"Lucy," I protested, "I'm full! There's not even room left for the vinegar off of mustard greens."

"We've got some!" she said triumphantly.

"Some what?"

"Mustard greens!"

"We'll probably have mustard greens at home tonight," I said shrewdly.

"I'll get you a lettuce salad," she said decisively, and was off before I could stop her.

I was not there when she came back. I fled, like the craven coward I am.

She'll get even, though. Next time, I'll probably get a double order of boiled beet tops.

GOP Honor Lincoln But See Two Of Him

WASHINGTON — In 225 Lincoln Day dinners from coast to coast, leading Republicans will beat the "Draft Ike" drums this week. The chorus will reach a crescendo Feb. 17 next when the National Committee meets here to select a national convention site.

President Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard Nixon are modestly remaining aloof from the celebrations. The vice president is making a good-will tour of the Caribbean. The trip has long been planned but he was not asked to postpone it.

It is just as well. So many upturned Republicans might inspire him to some of those injudicious flights of oratory that Democrats find so irritating. In the present crisis of foreign policy it is obviously better not to irritate the opposition which controls Congress.

The vice president can be expected to watch with the political reporters to see how often his name gets mentioned amid the general eloquence. So far the draft has been pushed strictly in terms of the President himself.

The Republican right is still for Lincoln but it is desecrating its love for Eisenhower. It will meet Saturday in Chicago in a kind of rump convention to hear what it regards as sound doctrine from Senators McCarthy, Malone and Dirksen and Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah.

McCarthy is billed to talk about the Acheson-Dulles Foreign policy—he's against it. He goes scheduled other speakers in the Midwest and East on the same topic.

It is a brave show but in strik-

Red Ugliness Aids U.S. Policy

WASHINGTON — The angry outburst from Communist China's foreign minister, Chou En-lai, refusing to take part in cease-fire negotiations at the United Nations, could hardly have pleased American policy-makers more if they had written it themselves. It meant that once more, as so often in the past, the Communists had by their intransigence removed the necessity for making decisions so difficult and delicate that these decisions threatened to split Americans at home and the Western allies abroad.

The second institution is the United Nations. At the time the Formosa resolution was introduced it was scarcely noted that this move cut directly across the mission of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to Peiping to try to obtain the release of the 11 American fliers imprisoned as "spies." Hammarskjold had gone on his mission at the urging of America's chief delegate to the U.N., Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

On returning from Peiping, the secretary-general expressed guarded hope that the fliers would be released, although this would not seem to come as a direct consequence of his mission. He also voiced the hope that his contacts with Peiping would continue. To those in Washington who believe that Communist China must be kept isolated this looked like beginning at breaking down the barriers with eventual admission of the Reds to the world organization. They were determined that this should not happen.

Failure of the effort to achieve a cease-fire through the U.N. will further lower the prestige of the world body.

It has been reported that the United States would seek to get approval for a U.N. peace observation team in the Formosa area. Soviet Russia would veto any such proposal in the Security Council, which would mean that it would have to come before the General Assembly or the so-called little assembly.

Therefore, according to State Department officials here, it is most unlikely that any such move will be made, since the attitude of the assembly on any Formosa question would be, to say the least, uncertain. To most Asian powers Chiang Kai-shek has come more and more to have the look of a colonial protege of the United States, dependent on what America will or will not do for him.

In the Middle East the dispute between Greece and Great Britain over the island of Cyprus has increased the resentment of the small powers toward the big powers. Whether the Arab nations would stand with the United States on Formosa, even on the question of a peace observation team, is doubtful. In Latin-America, where traditional friendships have aligned virtually all the American states with Washington, strong resentments have been built up.

So, if there is a stalemate in Formosa, which is the hope of policy-makers who advocate the Formosa resolution, there is something like a stalemate in the U.N.

In the center of the struggle between East and West, it is plagued with a growing sense of futility and frustration.

STAN DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

Kitzbuehel in Austria is an old, medieval town where half the people look as though they lived here. The other half are on crutches.

Personally I have never had a great desire to slide downhill on a pair of boards. In my salacious days I cut quite a figure on a Rover sled. But one day I flung myself at the sled and hit the street instead. It cost me half a tooth.

It did not take me anytime to figure out that snow was for polar bears. And ice is for chilling the dry martini.

However, I am willing to watch other people break their legs. And, in fact, feel that it may be of some value, giving work to splint manufacturers, doctors and crutch makers.

In all the Austrian Tyrol, Kitzbuehel is probably the most popular. It is a little town of two blocks of main street. The Arberg-Paris Express peanut whistles around it to avoid running through the Middle Ages walls.

In 1935, the Prince of Wales came here. He slid downhill and ate Tiroler Knoedl which is a local dumpling.

Senate Group OKs Formosa Treaty

Votes 11-2 For Ratification

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 11-2 Tuesday for ratification of the Formosa defense treaty.

The pact commits the United States to recognize any Communist attack on Formosa or the neighboring Pescadores islands as "dangerous to its own peace and safety" and to meet it with military power within the limits of the U.S. Constitution.

Congress has already authorized President Eisenhower to fight if necessary to defend Formosa and "related positions." Under his special authority he has assigned the 7th Fleet to cover Nationalist Chinese evacuation of the Tachen islands, a redeployment which officials say will strengthen defenses of Formosa.

Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, anticipated the Senate would want to debate the Formosa treaty at length, but he said he hoped it would be approved by Thursday. A two-thirds vote is required for ratification.

Sens. Morse (Ind-Ore) and Lanigan (R-ND) voted against the pact in committee.

Morse has denounced it as a "war treaty" which would recognize the sovereignty of Chiang Kai-shek's government over Formosa and involve the United States in Chiang's ambition to reconquer the Chinese mainland.

But members of the Foreign Relations Committee said the group would spell out in its formal report

CONSTRUCTION BOOM HEADING FOR A RECORD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Tuesday that construction boomed to a new high for January last month. Outlays totaled $2,800,000,000 despite the wintry weather.

The Commerce and Labor departments said the January outlay, on a seasonally adjusted basis, indicated a 40 billion dollar annual rate—another record. This compares with 37½ billions actually spent on construction in 1954.

Ex-Senator Holt Is Dead ... Cancer Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Tuesday that construction boomed to a new high for January last month. Outlays totaled $2,800,000,000 despite the wintry weather.

Holt, 49, had been ill many years. He died at the Research Clinic of the National Institutes of Health in suburban Bethesda, Md., where he had been a patient since Jan. 4.

He gained national prominence in 1934 when he was elected to the Senate while only 29.

The minimum age for senators is 30 years. After a seating contest, Holt finally took his place in the Senate June 21, 1935—two days after his 30th birthday and five months after his term had been scheduled to start Jan. 3.

Holt served only one term. He was defeated in the 1940 Democratic primary in West Virginia by Sen. Kilgore (D-WV) now chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He unsuccessfully sought a congressional seat and the governorship on the GOP ticket and then was elected a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates last November.

Surviving are the widow, the former Helen Louise Froelich of Gridley, Ill., and two children, Helen Jane and Rush Jr. The family lived in Weston, W.Va.

Winter Snows Stave Off Dust Bowl Threat

Soil Moisture Short In West

Nearly half of Nebraska's counties now report an ample supply of moisture, government crop observers said Tuesday.

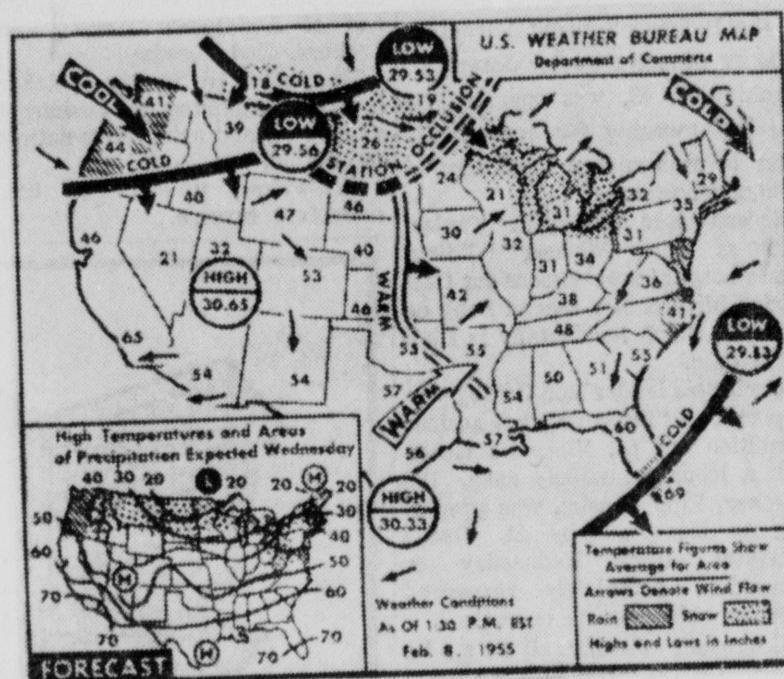

The above-normal precipitation so far this year "has staved off the threat of dust bowl conditions, which had started to develop the past year or two," according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

However, soil moisture still is short in western Nebraska and much more moisture will be needed, the weekly crop review noted.

Brucellosis Eradication Plan Constitutionality Is Challenged

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — A petition filed in Hall County District Court has challenged the constitutionality of Nebraska's brucellosis-eradication program as set up by the 1953 Legislature.

A petition in error, filed by Clarence Cates of Grand Island, asks that the establishment of Lake Township in Hall County as a brucellosis area be revoked. The suit lists the State Department of Agriculture and Inspection, Bureau of Animal Industry, and the United States Bureau of Animal Industry as defendants.

The petition alleges the law is unconstitutional because, among other things, it fails to define the term "breeding cattle" which is mentioned in the petition requirements; it is "indefinite and ambiguous;" and it fails to provide a method for a hearing or a method for appeal.

Some U.S. Legislators See Tougher Red Policy

... 'Unexpected Always Happening'

WASHINGTON (P) — Russia's swift change in command impressed some U.S. legislators Tuesday as likely to mean an even tougher Red policy toward the United States. Others thought they detected signs of turmoil within the Soviet Union.

Some said they just didn't know what it meant for the future. In Russia, as Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) pointed out, "the unexpected is always happening."

Chairman George (D-Ga.) was one of those who thought the accession of Defense Minister Nikolai Bulganin to the premiership with Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev as his sponsor, "looks like a tougher policy, both in Russia and abroad."

George noted that the deposed Georgi Malenkov was "more evenly disposed if not more friendly to the West." He recalled that Malenkov has tried to give the Russian people more goods, while Khrushchev is an advocate of heavier spending on arms.

Ripple'

Secretary of Defense Wilson, the man in charge of America's defense spending, calmly called the Russian shakeup "just another little ripple" so far as America's fundamental defense program is concerned. He said he didn't mean to say it lacked significance, but said this country can't "flip" its long-range program with every new international development.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the change may mean that Russian conditions are unstable, that "anything can happen in Russia now." Hickenlooper, in saying nothing

Bill Calling For One License Tag Is Postponed

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Lester Anderson proved a prophet when he said at the hearing on LB 196 which would eliminate the second license plate on motor vehicles that it "has one strike against it" because it saves money. Tuesday it was indefinitely postponed by the public health and miscellaneous subjects committee.

Anderson had told the committee that elimination of the second plate would save the state $50,000 to $75,000. He said his experience has been that a bill to save money gets nowhere.

"If the extra plate is something we don't need, it's a chance to trim away something in government, which we often talk about but seldom do," he explained.

No one appeared to oppose the bill, but Harry Salter, highway department attorney, appeared as representative of Col. C. J. Sanders of the Safety Patrol, who had been invited by the committee to attend.

Salter said that 85 per cent of the automobiles are met rather than passed by the patrol. The use of front license plates is "quite material" to the Patrol, he said, pointing out that 28 stolen cars were recovered last year and 1,114 arrests made of persons driving with improper licenses plates.

A single license plate such as is used, according to Anderson, in 17 or 18 states is normally carried on the rear of the vehicle.

The vote to reject the bill was 4 to 3, the same as the vote killing another Anderson measure, LB 106, which is patterned on the Colorado anti-hitch'hiking law. His offer to amend it to exempt persons hailing buses or cabs and servicemen in uniform failed to win the needed votes.

Bear Taxes

A bill, LB 142, which would change Nebraska's method of collecting beer taxes, was advanced to the legislative floor after an amendment patterning the bill after a Wisconsin law was approved.

Sen. John J. Larkin of Omaha, principal introducer of the bill, offered the amendment which he said has the approval of the State Liquor Commission.

Under the amended bill, brewers would pay the tax on an audit basis, instead of buying stamps from the Liquor Commission for affixing to the beer packages.

Appearing for the bill, although some objections were made to parts of it, were Charles W. Hoye, representing Nebraska's breweries; A. A. Whitworth, representing the U. S. Brewers Foundation; and Jack Devoe of Lincoln, representing the Nebraska Beer Wholesalers Association.

Whitworth objected to a provision of the bill which would require out-of-state brewers to obtain a $25 permit if their products are sold in Nebraska. He contended bonding provisions in the bill already provide all the regulatory control needed and termed it "discrimination between Nebraska and out-of-state breweries."

He contended bonding provisions in the bill already provide all the regulatory control needed and termed it "discrimination between Nebraska and out-of-state breweries."

It is not allowed to interfere with work of the State Court, when serving on boards, the justices return for the week of hearing oral arguments and write the same number of opinions as the other judges.

"Because Nebraska salaries for judges have long been inadequate and no retirement system offered for security, judges in Nebraska and other states have accepted the short term federal jobs," one judge explained.

"It means that the judge accepting such assignments has to work Sundays and nights to complete their opinions for both the State Court and the federal boards."

Another judge explained that if an adequate salary bill was passed by the Legislature he would be inclined to refuse any assignments to federal boards.

$50 A Day

It is understood that the Federal Mediation Board pays members, selected largely from State Supreme Courts, $50 a day and expenses for the time required to take evidence and write their findings.

The board members have to be approved by both sides of the industrial dispute.

A large percentage of the disputes are between railroads and the unions with which their employees affiliate.

Metzger, Monday, attempted to amend a bill increasing pay of judges to provide that they could not accept any outside work. It was voted down 19 to 16.

The senator explained that he sought the information "so that we, the representatives of the people, can accurately evaluate the purported need and justification for their salary increase."

Another judge pointed out that they are elected by the same people as the Legislature and that if their actions are displeasing to the voters they would be defeated.

Nixon Impressed

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon said after a conference with President Fulgencio Batista, "I am very much impressed with the competence and stability" of the island government.

Nixon, on a four-week Caribbean good will tour, also reiterated at a news conference that he personally believes the U.S. marketing quota for sugar—the backbone of the Cuban economy—will not be cut prior to expiration of the current sugar act at the end of 1956. This was favorably received, since Cuba has a vast sugar surplus.

Nationalists Feast Before Evacuation

By JIM BECKER

BIG SUN HAT VILLAGE, Lower Tachen Island (P) — Civilians and soldiers on this Nationalist island feasted Tuesday night. Only dogs will be left behind for the Communists.

As night fell, engulfing the guardian U.S. 7th Fleet, bonfires lit the island. Civilians were roasting pigs, sheep, chickens and ducks which they are not allowed to take with them.

Soldiers bought some of the live stock and had feasts of their own.

Some of the old Chinese waiting for the ships to come and get them wore queues, which the rulers on the mainland ordered cut off in 1911.

Citizens of this 1,000-year-old village, which once was a headquarters for pirates, say every civilian except one is leaving. Good riddance to him, they said. They reported he was an opium peddler.

Muddy Shoes

A leathery wrinkled old woman squatted on the stone steps of a boarded up shop. Beside her was her son, dressed in padded blue and muddy tennis shoes.

Over the son's shoulder was hung a bamboo pole with two enormous bundles bobbing from the ends—all the possessions he and his mother would take to Formosa.

The old woman said she and her son were leaving these islands for the first time only because "the fishermen here have told us what the Communists have done on the mainland."

"I have two good hands," said the son, "and I can make a living."

The long line moved slowly toward the beach where small boats were carrying refugees to transports anchored in the muddy channel.

Chiang Flags

The people carried pots, pans, sacks of rice and personal belongings. Many waved small Nationalist flags.

Young men carried the aged and the invalids. Mothers carried children strapped to their backs.

Able-bodied men helped the soldiers carry ammunition and supplies to the beaches for the military withdrawal which will begin as soon as the last civilians are gone.

Behind them, the civilians had left signs painted on walls for the Communists: "To Hell With Mao Tze-tung," the Chinese Communist ruler and "We Will Be Back."

As they waited in line, the sound of explosions roared up from the harbor and clouds of dirt and debris flew high in the air.

The Nationalists were blowing up the harbor defenses so the Communists will find little of value when they come.

Efforts Approved

Briton Says Kremlin Shuffle Leads Inner Clash, Weakness

A prediction of a "weaker Russia" because of the Kremlin shuffle came from a visiting British political scientist Tuesday night.

G. Colin Jackson, visiting professor at the University of Nebraska, asserted that "there will be a clash between the new premier Bulganin and Khrushchev." (The latter heads the Communist Party Central Committee and is termed the power behind the throne.)

"Malenkov was an able man," Jackson told an audience of 100 at Love Library.

"All these men who were able and backed Malenkov will be routed out," he opined.

Jackson termed Nikita Khrushchev as "dynamic, brutal and rather ignorant."

"The Khrushchev men are all noisy—there will be more in War III?"

3-Year School-Building Plan Presented By Ike

... 3 Ways Of Assisting Districts Proposed

WASHINGTON (P) — President Eisenhower outlined Tuesday a three-year attack on the nation's school shortage which would throw $1,100,000,000 of federal money into emergency construction. He said the program would preserve "the responsibility of communities and states in educating our children."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (D-N.J.) and Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-N.J.) immediately introduced bills to put the President's proposal into effect.

Three Categories

The Eisenhower plan is aimed at assisting school districts in three categories:

1. Those which are able to issue building bonds but which cannot market them at reasonable interest rates.

2. Those which have issued all the bonds they are legally permitted but which still have some money available.

3. Those which are flat broke.

For the first group the President's plan would do this:

The federal government would appropriate 750 million dollars over a period of three years to help states buy bonds which could not be sold at an interest rate of less than 3% per cent. The federal government would buy from 50 to 80 per cent of a state's total bonds, depending on the state's per capita income. The federal funds would be repayable in 30 years.

Congress received the President's plan with general expressions of approval.

They'd Be Handy About Now, Too

The Legislature's Revenue Committee Tuesday heard testimony on a group of bills which included one entitled, "To provide for additional tax evasions."

But before the hearing was over, the title had been changed. It dealt with tax evasions all right, but the intention is to decrease them, not provide for more. It now reads: "To redefine additional tax evasions."

The committee sent to the floor LB 295 through 300, introduced by Sen. L. M. Schultz for the Department of Agriculture and Inspection. They deal with transportation, and seek to bring all carriers under the same regulations.

Profitable Celebration

MYSTIC, Conn. (P) — Most towns find that an anniversary celebration costs money, but the committee that arranged Mystic's month-long tercentenary observance wound up $9,000 in the black. The surplus went to the Mystic Community Center for the development of a public beach and park.

Turnpike Loan Meets Opposition ... Committee Holds Bill

Action on a bill to authorize the Turnpike Authority to borrow $150,000 from the Highway Department for the purpose of making surveys was held over after a hearing by the Legislature's banking Committee Tuesday.

The proposal was sharply attacked by highway associations, farm organizations, motel operators, smaller towns, truckers and the petroleum industries.

The bill, LB 156, was defended by Raymond E. McGrath, Omaha, chairman of the commission. Sens. Charles Tvrlik and Tom Adams, the introducers, were absent due to illness. There were no other supporters of the bill.

McGrath said use of the funds for a feasibility study between Omaha and North Platte would be repaid by the authority if the road were built and the study could be used by the Highway Department if it was found to the advantage of the state to spend funds on the proposed inter-state system.

Three Reasons

Charles Marshall of the Farm Bureau Federation gave three reasons they opposed the bill (1) present shortage of highway funds, (2) precedent in having one state agency loan to another, and (3) the state might lose money if the toll road was found not feasible.

Frank Blazek, Omaha, representing the motel association said the loan would be in effect an advance to "eastern bankers" to determine whether they should invest funds.

W. W. Small, Decatur, said Iowa had found a toll road not feasible unless the state guaranteed interest on bonds for several years. He urged that the authority be abolished as needless and expensive.

Duped Before

W. S. Padley, Gothenburg, told the committee, "we have been duped by eastern bankers before."

Russel Lockwood, representing petroleum interests, said some oil companies were losing two cents a gallon on gas sold and were under ten year contracts.

Others appearing in opposition included: Mayor Henry Phares, Central City; Paul Halpine, Nebraska Motor Carriers Association; Dr. Clyde Filley, state Grange; John O. Schmidt, Wahoo; Virgil E. Skipton,

Mom Jumps Into Hot Furnace Duct To Save Daughter

HORNELL, N. Y. (P) — A young mother Tuesday jumped down a searing hot duct into the hot-air chamber of a furnace to try to save her baby. The baby, rescued by firemen, was not hurt. The mother, also rescued, was burned.

Mrs. John Shaver, 28, wife of a state police corporal, thought to telephone the Fire Department and turn off the heat in her home before she dropped down the pipe after her 19-month-old daughter, Terry.

Mrs. Shaver had removed a cover to clean the dust from it. Terry tumbled into the opening, about two feet in diameter.

Fair Condition

Firemen found the child in a cold-air intake at the level of the cellar floor. Three feet away from her, Mrs. Shaver was wedged into the hot-air chamber of the furnace and touching the outside of the fire box. She did not reach the flames.

Firemen ripped off the side of the air jacket to pull the two out.

First-degree burns covered about 10 per cent of the mother's body. Hospital attaches said her condition was fair.

Firemen said Mrs. Shaver might have perished had she not called them.

Teachers High, trailing Omaha Holy Name by 22 points late in the third quarter, found the range in the final minutes of the game to press the tall Ramblers in a 52-46 defeat at the Nebraska Coliseum Tuesday night.

A final hectic flurry brought the Tutors from a 52-35 deficit to their final six-point lag after Holy Name had threatened to repeat its previous 60-32 win over the Tutors.

Holy Name was bothered only in the last three minutes when the pressing Tutors moved in on the Ramblers, made cautious by a heavy burden of fouls.

Big Men

Dick Hartmann, 6-foot, 7-inch center, and John Putnam, 6-4 forward, steered the Ramblers to a 46-23 lead in the last minute of the third quarter. Hartmann had picked up four fouls, however, and was shackled in the last period.

Holy Name ended with 24 fouls, and only ineffectual free throw shooting kept the Tutors from pulling an upset. Teachers had a 20-40 free throw mark.

A tight Holy Name defense kept Teachers from getting good shots early in the game and Hartmann himself outscored the whole Lincoln team in the first half, 16-13.

Big Leads

Holy Name had a 29-13 halftime advantage. The Ramblers led 39-21 and later 45-23 in the third quarter.

Drive-in shots by Larry Witt and Marvin Bauer hit a fielder and Bill Hunsaker made a free throw, making it 52-42.

The press defense then clicked twice to give Teachers possession. A hook shot by Holland Worster and Kaminski's jump shot accounted for the final Teachers points.

It was the sixth loss for Teachers against six wins. Holy Name is undefeated in four games.

Lou Saban Chosen As Head Coach ...At Northwestern

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

E V A N S T O N, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern University Tuesday evening picked one of its own assistant coaches, 33-year-old Lou Saban, to become head football coach succeeding Bob Voigts.

Voigts resigned suddenly last week after serving eight years. He said he quit because of alumni criticism.

At the time, former Northwestern and Cleveland Browns' quarterback star, Otto Graham, was boosted enthusiastically by alumni for the job.

But Graham quickly withdrew from consideration.

Youngest of Big Ten

Saban, who becomes the youngest head football coach in the Big Ten, served one year under Voigts as defensive backfield mentor. His new contract is for one year at an undisclosed salary. Voigts reportedly received $14,000 annually.

"I accept the position with humility," said Saban, who played quarterback for Indiana from 1940 through 1942 and starred defensively for the Browns for four seasons beginning in 1946.

"I am extremely happy to receive the appointment and grateful for the confidence placed in me. I will work hard to give Northwestern a successful football program."

No Hitches

Alumni pressure built up against Voigts when his teams won only one conference game in the last two seasons. He had one more year to go on a five-year contract.

Northwestern's current freshman football squad is considered one of its best in years. Saban has a first-hand knowledge of the material and can swing into spring practices, scheduled to start April 11, without a hitch.

Athletic Director Ted Payeur, who accepted Voigts' resignation "with deep regret," said he was pleased "that we have men on our staff of Saban's caliber."

"I feel that he possesses the qualifications for the job and will do a good one," Payeur added.

Scribes Convinced Dons Best Team In Nation'

San Francisco Soars Past Kentucky In Wide Margin To Take First Place In Weekly Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

The Associated Press

The San Francisco Dons, who want to prove they're the best college basketball team in the nation, already have done a pretty good job of convincing the sports-writers and broadcasters.

That was seen Tuesday when San Francisco was voted the No. 1 team by a big margin in the ninth weekly Associated Press ranking poll. The Dons were named first by 68 of 126 voters and polled a total of 1,107 points.

Kentucky, the leader ever since the second week of this season's poll, dropped to second place with only 19 first place votes and 867 points. Points are scored on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

No Ballyhoo

San Francisco, a ball control team with the nation's best defensive record this season, made the top without the benefit of any advance ballyhoo. The Dons were not listed in the pre-season poll, dropped to second place with only 19 first place votes and 867 points. Points are scored on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc. Thus far, the Dons have not been mentioned in the pre-season poll, dropped to second place with only 19 first place votes and 867 points. Points are scored on the basis of 10 for each first place

7-Foot 'Stilt' Ponders 150 College Cage Bids

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt The Stilt, America's most prominent high school basketball player definitely is going to college. The big question is, which one?

In case you haven't heard, Wilt The Stilt is Wilton Chamberlain, a seven-foot Negro lad who scores on a basketball court at a point a minute clip. The 18-year-old giant plays for Overbrook High School in Philadelphia.

At last count, Chamberlain said, he has received close to 150 bids to attend higher institutions of learning and, of course, to play a little basketball. Wilt says he hasn't made up his mind where he'll go and won't until May or June.

"I want to select a top-rated school from a scholastic standpoint as well as one that plays three-time basketball," said the B-student average student. He's interested in studying business administration, possibly going on to law school.

As a high school basketballer, The Stilt has scored 1,912 points. He has seven games to play and if he continues at his 40-plus per game average can eclipse the three-year scoring record set by LaSalle's great All-American, Tom Gola. The latter netted 2,222 points over three seasons at LaSalle High. Wilt's one game high is 74, scored earlier this season. Chamberlain's coach, Cecil Mosenor, says The Stilt should become even greater than Gola, who has been mentioned by many experts as one of the top players of all time. Gola is 6-7.

"Gola has mastered every phase of the game of basketball. Wilt will never do that, but I believe that because of his size, strength and endurance he'll surpass Gola," Mosenson says.

There has been some discussion about Wilt's actual height, ranging from 6-11 to 7-1, but Wilt settles it all when he says, "Let's say I'm seven feet even." He's a skinny 225 pounder.

U.S. Must Bolster Will For Freedom Behind Iron Curtain—Ike

... 'Free World Growing Stronger'

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower declared Tuesday night America "must face up to the dangers that still lurk about us" and also must help intensify "the will for freedom" in Soviet satellite countries.

The President's remarks were in a brief speech over a "closed" television circuit to Crusade for Freedom meetings in 35 U.S. cities. He spoke from the White House broadcasting room.

The chief executive said the free world "is growing stronger because its peoples are growing in their determination to stand together and in their faith that freedom and justice will triumph."

He added, however, that "we must also face up to the dangers that still lurk about us" and must work constantly "to strengthen our position of defense and to reinforce our alliances and friendships in the free world."

No Changes

The White House said Eisenhower's talk was prepared before Tuesday's surprise shakeup in the Soviet high command. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower decided against making any changes in his prepared remarks after learning of the developments in Moscow.

The President spoke only a few hours after Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov bitterly assailed the United States. The Russian leader accused this country of trying to lead the world into a new war and declared it is guilty in China of aggression "which must be condemned by the United Nations." Eisenhower told his audience:

"While we maintain our vigilance at home and abroad, we must help intensify the will for freedom in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain. These countries are in the Soviet backyard; and only so long as their people are reminded that the outside world has not forgotten them—only that long

'Most Wanted' Man Began As A Horse Thief

Palmer James Morset, 48, now on the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list, began his life of crime in Nebraska in 1922, where he was committed to the Reformatory for horse stealing.

A native of Chicago, he was sentenced from Richardson County for a 1-2 year term and was released in July, 1924. The name under which he was committed was John M. Peterson, the same name as his father's.

Reformatory records show the name "Morset" as an alias.

Upon his release, records show, he was placed on a train by the superintendent with a ticket to Chicago and told "to go straight home."

Apparently he didn't. There is a letter on file at the Reformatory explaining how he had been put on the train and expressing regret to his father that he hadn't arrived at home.

An August note tells why. He was in jail at Fremont for an undisclosed offense.

Morset later turned to armed robbery. On Nov. 2, 1928, the nervous lone-wolf was sentenced to one year to life and released in 1940 from the Illinois State Prison.

He is currently wanted for jumping bond in Chicago to escape prosecution on three charges of robbery. On March 20, 1950, he and an accomplice had staged a daring holdup of a Chicago finance company and were captured.

Indian 'Liquor Rights' Bill Advances

A measure giving Indians the right at home," he added, explaining the existing law was written when Indians were not yet citizens.

Another Bill advanced Tuesday plugs a hole in the ban on fireworks. It is LB 102, by Sen. Person of Wahoo, making it unlawful to possess fireworks which cannot be sold in Nebraska.

Municipal Bills Advance

Four bills relating to municipalities advanced. They were:

LB 25, providing that levies made by first and second class cities may be used for all purposes and need not be identified for special uses.

LB 117, providing that claims against first class cities, excepting salaries and interest on bonds, shall be filed with the city clerk.

LB 120, removing requirement that claims against second class cities be notarized.

LB 225, harmonizing references to maximum levy in metropolitan cities in counties having functioning health departments.

Sen. Otto Kearney, said passage of LB 25 would enable the cities to do their own budgeting.

Also advanced was LB 134, redefining the eastern boundaries of Nebraska's Missouri River counties to conform to the Iowa-Nebraska compact of 1943.

Omaha Highway Action Postponed

OMAHA (AP) — Action on the Omaha Southwest Radial highway may be held up a year. Stanley A. Michael, consulting engineer to the Omaha Improvement Commission, has advised such action.

Michael said the delay is justified in view of studies going on relative to a toll road or interstate highway that would run south of Omaha. If additional federal money is available this year, he said it could be used on the Northwest Radial.

The senators were annoyed at times with a metallic ring in the loudspeaker, and not all of the microphones would come on at the right time.

Talking, Temperature Bother Lawmakers

Nebraska lawmakers had two complaints Tuesday:

Their public address system wasn't working too well, and the temperature in the chamber wasn't regulated properly.

Lt. Gov. Charles Warner called Sen. Brower of Fullerton to the hair to preside so Warner could devote his full attention to operation of the control panel for the public address system.

The senators were annoyed at times with a metallic ring in the loudspeaker, and not all of the microphones would come on at the right time.

Chairman Bridenbaugh of the Budget Committee said the firm which installed the system had been asked to check it thoroughly.

Sen. Anderson of Aurora complained first about the temperature.

"The only time I catch cold is when I come down here to the Legislature. It's 80 by my desk right now. I'm sweating, and I don't have on long underwear either," he commented.

"It may be 80 over by Lester Anderson's desk, but it's about 60 by mine. There is a draft here," asserted Sen. Hoffmeister of Imperial, a doctor.

Bill For Higher Teacher Standards Approved; No Opposition At Hearing

A bill aimed at higher certification standards came out of the Legislature's education committee Tuesday afternoon by a 7-to-1 vote.

No one appeared at the public hearing to oppose the measure, and many of those speaking for it were from rural areas where resistance to such a proposal has centered in the past.

The form in which the bill reaches the floor of the unicameral is a somewhat modified version of the measure introduced at the beginning of the session by Sens. Glenn Cramer of Albion and Kathleen Foote of Axtell.

The original LB 98 provided an abrupt cut-off date in 1960 for teachers having had only normal training in high school or 12 hours of college work.

Gradual Cut Off

A committee amendment provides for a more gradual approach to the cut-off date, so that by 1958 a full year of college training would be required of all Nebraska teachers, with the second year of college training to be required by 1960.

The measure was further amended to provide that a person might have the option of starting teaching with only a year's college training, if the second year of college work is completed within a prescribed length of time. This period will be determined by the time required to acquire a year of college credit by attending summer school.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth said his reason for offering this amendment was that he was fearful of closing the door to prospective teachers who are financially unable to take two years in college before they start their teaching career.

Those appearing to support the bill included Scotts Bluff County Superintendent Jesse Shedd; Robert Cape, Dalton, president-elect of the state school boards association; Walter Skelton, superintendent of schools at Rushville, and Stewart Hanlon, Hayes Center.

Floyd Hudkins, Waverly farmer, said he had rented out two farms to others and moved his home to a rented farm nearer town in order to send his children to a better school.

"I don't want my boy to go back to the little rural school," he declared.

Bernie Meyer of Gering said he was paying the tuition himself so his son could attend a better school.

Referring to the fact that many beginning teachers in rural areas are girls just out of high school, Mrs. Esther Bartels of Chadron declared:

"We won't hire immature girls for baby sitters, yet we farm people are supposed to allow these immature girls to handle our children nine months of the year."

On-The-Job Trainees

Bob Boeckenhauer of Wayne said: "We're using our rural schools for on-the-job training for teachers."

Others speaking for the bill were Frank Sands of Gering; Oscar Bindewold of Anselmo; Mrs. Hazel Comstock, York county superintendent; and Mrs. Leonard Campbell, Norfolk.

Brings Most Teachers

Dr. Tempore said states with the highest certification standards have the most abundant supply of teachers available.

Several of the witnesses were questioned closely by Senators Frank Nelson of O'Neill, and Arnold Ruhnke, Plymouth, who expressed concern the proposed legislation might make it difficult for rural schools to hire teachers at salaries these districts can afford to pay.

It was a telegram from President Chris Milius of the Nebraska Farmers' Union who predicted the proposed legislation would create a "highly professionalized, higher salaried school system, with the best educational interest of the rural child of only secondary importance."

The committee held LB 162, by Sens. Fenske of Sunol, Bixler of Harrison and Hoffmeister of Imperial, providing that a district bordering another state need not be dissolved when the time limit for contracting has been reached.

"Youngsters in rural districts are just as important as youngsters in town. To me, rural teaching is the toughest teaching job of all. Perhaps we should reverse the situation and have our best trained teachers in our rural schools," he commented.

The original LB 98 provided an abrupt cut-off date in 1960 for teachers having had only normal training in high school or 12 hours of college work.

Gradual Cut Off

A committee amendment provides for a more gradual approach to the cut-off date, so that by 1958 a full year of college training would be required of all Nebraska teachers, with the second year of college training to be required by 1960.

The measure was further amended to provide that a person might have the option of starting teaching with only a year's college training, if the second year of college work is completed within a prescribed length of time. This period will be determined by the time required to acquire a year of college credit by attending summer school.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth said his reason for offering this amendment was that he was fearful of closing the door to prospective teachers who are financially unable to take two years in college before they start their teaching career.

Those appearing to support the bill included Scotts Bluff County Superintendent Jesse Shedd; Robert Cape, Dalton, president-elect of the state school boards association; Walter Skelton, superintendent of schools at Rushville, and Stewart Hanlon, Hayes Center.

Floyd Hudkins, Waverly farmer, said he had rented out two farms to others and moved his home to a rented farm nearer town in order to send his children to a better school.

"I don't want my boy to go back to the little rural school," he declared.

Bernie Meyer of Gering said he was paying the tuition himself so his son could attend a better school.

Referring to the fact that many beginning teachers in rural areas are girls just out of high school, Mrs. Esther Bartels of Chadron declared:

'Flattop' Houses Are Trend, Home Builders President Says

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON — Those modern flattop houses that stretch row after row over the suburban landscape—you may as well learn to like them. More and more of them are going to do more and more landscapes.

"They're the trend," Earl W. "Flattop" Smith said firmly Tuesday.

Smith is the new president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, a man who got that nickname

City, County Set 3-Mile Zoning, Licensing Plan

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Star Staff Writer

A procedural format for zoning, building and licensing within the three-mile area surrounding Lincoln has been worked out between city and Lancaster County officials.

Commissioner Del Lienemann told the County Board that the proposed procedures would "eliminate contradicting forms and instructions to applicants" from the two governmental bodies.

The procedural outline, subject to approval by the County Board and City Council, was worked out in a meeting between Lienemann and City Atty. Jack Pace, City Building Inspector Ed Vorhees, and City Planning Engineer Douglas Brogden.

City Jurisdiction

Zoning within the three-mile area would be under the jurisdiction of the city, which would receive and take action on all zoning applications.

However, the county would be advised of all applications in this area and the County Board could make recommendations to the City Council.

All zoning applications would be made to the city building inspector and three copies of the plot plans would be submitted to the city-county health department for approval of water and sanitation plans.

Council Has Final OK

The health department would forward two copies to the city building inspector, who would send one copy to the City Planning Commission and City Council and the other to the County Board.

Final approval of plans and zoning application would be up to the City Council, but the County Board could submit recommendations.

No construction could be started until after zoning approval. The city would charge its usual $20 fee if a zoning change is requested, but no fee is charged if the area is already zoned for industrial or business and only an additional use permit is sought.

County Authority

As to building permits, operating licenses and occupation tax, the county would have sole jurisdiction within the three-mile area.

Application for a building permit and payment of fees would be made at the office of the County Commissioners.

License applications must be made to the County Clerk and

Again, It's Just A 'Ripple'—Wilson

WASHINGTON (INS) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson used an old phrase to comment on Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov's resignation. He said: "It's just a ripple."

Wilson used the same words last month in describing the Formosa situation. His remark then touched off a furore and he explained later he was referring to long-range U.S. defense planning.

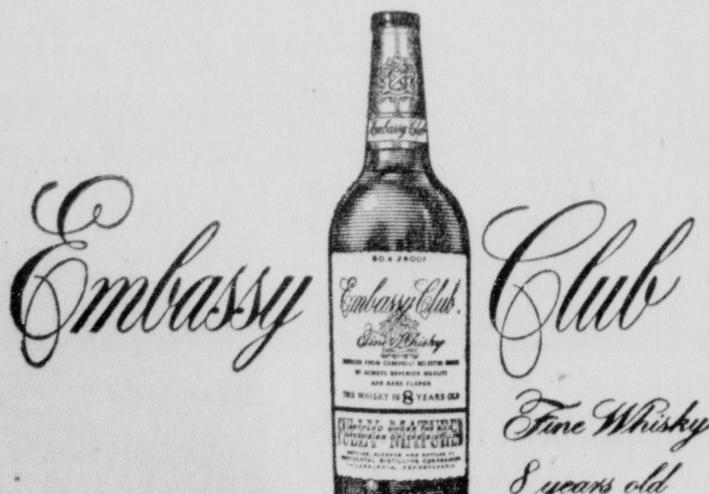

Asked in an interview with INS-Telenews for his reaction on Malenkov's resignation, he replied: "It doesn't mean much difference in our plans one way or another. I don't like to use the word ripple again, but it's just a ripple."

Gentlemen — nowhere in the world —

not even in Scotland, Canada, or the United States — is a more gentle tasting whisky distilled" because he probably has done more than anyone to make the modern flattop house a part of the American scene.

Result Overpowering

"I was the first to put them up in subdivisions," Smith said. "It used to be you couldn't get a government loan on a flattop house. Well, I had to battle the FHA—maybe I should say I had to induce the FHA—to loan money on 'em."

The result has been overpowering, as everyone knows. Smith hasn't shirked his part in the Cerrito, Calif., firm puts up 3,000 movement. Each year his El flattops, and Smith is proud of it.

"Oh, we'll keep on building other types of housing," Smith said. "Let's say a guy or gal's parents had a Cape Cod or a traditional house so they want one, too. God love 'em, we'll see they get it, although I must say this: In the modern house, you get the most efficiency for your buck."

An uninitiated visitor, whose parents lived in a traditional home, suggested that the flattop house, in great quantities, become monotonous.

For a moment it looked as if Smith might blow his flattop.

"We have different fronts," he said, "and 14 changes in the chromatic scheme. I work that out myself. I like to think I'm a minor expert on that. And remember, where each person plans his house, I've seen some pretty horrendous results. I mean that literally."

Smith, an energetic 46, is proud of the fact that he's the first president of the association ever, who armed with a hammer and saw, could ship up a house without calling for outside help. He came by this naturally. His father and grandfather before him were carpenters, too.

"I think it is significant that when my grandfather was 92, a man called to complain that the roof leaked on a barn my grandfather had built. Well, he couldn't get hold of any of his men, so he went out himself and climbed up on the barn roof and patched the thing in the rain. He caught a cold and died, but I'm proud that he died in harness, you might say."

Problems Grow

As the housing developments grow, Smith said, so do the problems. Sewer lines are extended until they will handle no more sewage. More schools must be built.

All this has steadily run up the cost of developed land until he fears even the so-called low cost house costs more than the average worker can afford. Lots used to account for 15 or 20 per cent of the cost, he said. Now it's often 33 per cent.

"Here's a problem that not just the builder but the whole community must face," he said. "Maybe we're trying to do too much, to be too elaborate."

"Maybe we'll have to face up to the fact that some of us can't afford the luxury of a boulevard in front of every house and a swimming pool every 30 feet."

Wyoming Quarantine Is Effective Sept. 1

Wyoming's quarantine against shipments of hay containing weed seeds won't take effect until Sept. 1. Nebraska Agriculture Director Ed Hoyt has been advised by Wyoming authorities.

The quarantine, under which hay shipments would have to be inspected before they could enter Wyoming, had been scheduled originally to start Feb. 1.
